Drive Set For New Pool For Children

A harbor area-wide drive to raise funds to construct a therapeutic pool at the Harlan Shoemaker School for Handicapped Children in San Pedro is scheduled to begin April 15. It was learned here yesterday.

Charles Soderstrom, head of the Harbor Area Therapy Unit for Handicapped Children, Inc., said volunteers will attempt to raise $65,000 for the pool during a month-long campaign.

GEORGE VICO, former major league baseball player and currently a Torrance resident and executive with Dominguez Estates Co., will head the Torrance section of the drive, Soderstrom said.

The pool will be built at the school located at 424 S. Weymouth in the port city for about 250 children with physical impairments who live throughout the harbor district.

SPECIALISTS at the school have stated that the pool would greatly benefit a large number of the handicapped children, Soderstrom said.

After installation, the pool would be operated and maintained by the Los Angeles City School system.

Students Spend Day in the Navy

Two students from North High School and three students from South High School were among 450 high school reporters who spent last Thursday aboard the Navy cruiser Toledo as participants in the third annual "Day in the Navy," sponsored by Public Relations Co. 11-2, U. S. Naval Reserve, and Rear Adm. C. C. Hartman, Commandant 11th Naval District, in cooperation with local school officials.

Jerry Hasket and Bill Rustrum represented Torrance High School. South High School students who participated were: Rick Healey, Andy Harris, and Herb Taylor.

The high school journalists will compete in a writing contest about their experiences as guests of the Navy. Twenty-five winners will be given a special tour of the Pacific Missile Range at Pt. Mugu, May 1, at invitation of Rear Admiral Jack Morrison, FMR Commander. Portable typewriters will go to the two top winners.
